

Memory Lane

EXPLORE THE PAST OF DOWNTOWN HAMILTON

VIEW MORE
PROPERTIES
HERE

Landed Banking & Loan Company

Exterior view of the Landed Banking and Loan Company, also known as the National Trust Company, located at 47 James Street South at Main Street East. Officially, the design is credited to city architect Charles Mills (1860-1934); however, the style and design closely resembles the Knickerbockers Trust Company, which was located in New York City and designed by Stanford White (1853-1906). Erected in 1908, this was the main office of the Landed Banking and Loan Company, which was absorbed by the Canada Permanent Trust Company in 1944.

Exterior view of the Mercantile Bank of Canada, built in 1908 and located at 47 James Street South at Main Street East.